Guiding Principles

1. Leaving no one behind:

A commitment to equity, non-discrimination and a rights-based approach. Civil society is often best placed to gain access to, represent, and prioritize the most marginalized key populations.

2. Increase Public Financing for Health.

To ensure universal health coverage and health system strengthening, reducing out of pocket expenses and achieving the aims of the SDGs, national governments and donors should increase public financing for health.

3. Improve Involvement of CSOs and Citizens, Transparency and Accountability at All Levels.

Civil society must be included in decision-making processes at all levels, to facilitate citizen-led monitoring of progress against outcomes towards universal health coverage, including the health budget and adherence to commitments.

4. Invest in Health Workers

Achieving universal health coverage depends on the availability, accessibility, and capacity of professionally trained health workers- community and frontline health workers, more so at the primary care level, to deliver quality, people-centered health services
